Victory in the North West

British National Party 132,094 votes (8.0%) - ONE SEAT GAINED

NICK Griffin MEP, now represents the people of 39 local authorities across the North West of England.

Back in 2004, the Chairman of the British National Party narrowly missed out on being elected to Brussels but this time there was no mistake as the Party's vote soared by 1.6% to ensure the BNP won one of the eight seats on offer. Burnley provided the highest percentage of support at 14.6%, but it was the big votes in the large population centres across the region that helped get Nick elected.

Votes like the 6,549 (13.2%) in Tameside, our second best vote on the night. The massive 7,517 in Wigan which was 11.8% and the BNP performance in both Manchester (6,796) and Liverpool (5,398), which although below the 8% needed for victory, was a significant improvement on last time.

There were worries that the two new authorities of Cheshire West and Cheshire East would reduce our vote share, but even though we were well short of the 8% needed, votes of 4,785 and 5,162 were enough to keep us in contention.

Oldham (5,435), Rochdale (4,905) and Salford (4,818) all played a vital part in the BNP's success as did the local authority with the most improved vote in the whole of the North West.

At the last European Elections, the British National Party in Copeland in Cumbria polled just 5% of the vote. This time around it was 12.4%, the third best BNP vote in the region.

Victory in Yorkshire

British National Party 120,139 votes (9.8%) - ONE SEAT GAINED

BARNESLEY BNP have written themselves into British National Party folklore after they delivered a stunning result at the European Elections.

The last time around in June 2004, the British National Party vote in Barnsley was 7.9%. This time it was 16.7% - 8,543 votes - the third best BNP percentage in the entire country.

So stunned was the Establishment at the support for the British National Party in Barnsley that it was featured on BBC TV in its Election Night Special and then later on news bulletins.

While Barnsley led the way, it was well supported by the rest of South Yorkshire with Rotherham on 9,695 votes (15.4%), Doncaster 8,921 (11.8%) and Sheffield 12,607 (10.0%) - all polling above the required 9.5% to get Andrew Brons elected.

There was another massive vote in Wakefield 9,108 (13.2%) and in Kirklees where, despite the rapidly changing demographics of the borough, 11,626 people still voted BNP, which was 11.4%.

But as with the North West it was down to the verdict of Yorkshire's large population centres as to whether the British National Party gained the precious victory.

In Bradford, the BNP vote was 10,330 - 9.4% of all those who voted but probably nearer 20% of traditional Brits. In Leeds there was an incredible 17,375 BNP votes which was just over 10% and more than enough to send Andrew Brons to the European Parliament.

VICTORY IN BURNLEY: New British National Party county councillor Sharon Wilkinson, celebrates with supporters at the count.

BNP wins first three county councillors

BACK in 2002, it was in Burnley that the British National Party hit the headlines when we gained our first three borough councillors.

So it was fitting that the media spotlight should once again focus on the former mill town in the North West of England when Sharon Wilkinson became the first ever elected British National Party county councillor.

The BNP now has well over 100 local councillors at borough level and below, but winning a county seat is much more difficult.

The contests are for whole electoral divisions which in most cases contain a number of wards, making them much bigger and of less interest to an already disillusioned electorate.

Sharon's victory in Padiham and Burnley West and the other Lancashire County Council results in Burnley are a testament to the hard work of the local branch and the growing popularity of the BNP in the town.

Back in 2005 when these elections were last contested Sharon came third in her ward behind the Lib-Dems and more than a thousand votes behind Labour's victor, Marcus Johnstone. This time she finished 200 votes ahead of him.

The five other seats contested in Burnley also saw an increase in the BNP vote share.

The second victory came in the East Midlands where Graham Partner was elected to a Leicestershire county council seat.

Graham is already a hard-working BNP District councillor for North West Leicestershire and now he steps up to represent Coalville at county level.

There were three other BNP votes over 25% in Leicestershire and another three in Derbyshire.

Our third and final county council victory came in the East of England where Deirdre Gates provided probably the biggest shock of the day when taking the South Oxhey seat on Hertfordshire County Council.

It was the first time the BNP had fought the seat although Pat Dunne is a local BNP councillor and Deirdre herself narrowly missed out on being elected in May 2008.

June 4th 2009: Members of the 1000 Club

IT has been a tradition in Freedom to acknowledge our local election candidates who poll more than 1,000 votes.

Up until June 4th, the BNP had fought less than 50 county council seats, so the 1000 Club was more concerned with borough and district council election results.

County council electoral divisions vary considerably in size, so the largest vote isn't necessarily the best vote as can be seen by our votes for Essex County Council.

But it's a tradition so we shall stick with it. There's a more balanced view of the results on pages 8, 9 and 10 where votes above 25% are highlighted in Red and above 20% in blue.

Billboards gain the publicity

THE British National Party's billboard campaign certainly attracted the public's attention.

There were nearly some accidents and motorists drove around roundabouts for a second time to get another look at the huge BNP posters as though they couldn't believe their eyes.

And it wasn't just motorists who saw the billboards.

In some areas they created such a stir that many newspapers actually carried photographs of the British Jobs for British Workers posters, reporting to their readers the outrage of our opponents because our message was getting out uncensored.

THAMESIDE THEATRE: Nick Griffin answers questions from journalists while behind them the audience makes its allegiance clear.

Spectacular press conference launches our Euro campaign

THE British National Party staged the most spectacular press conference it has ever presented on Monday 11th May.

It was held in Thameside Theatre in Grays which was packed with local and European election candidates and the largest contingent of media representatives to ever attend a BNP election launch.

The conference was opened by Deputy Chairman Simon Darby, who introduced a film which showcased the BNP's increasingly professional background operation.

There followed a series of short speeches, each illustrated by images projected onto the cinema screen.

The first was from Jim Dowson, the Party Fundraiser, who announced that thanks to the generosity of our donors, the BNP was spending more on this campaign than on all the previous campaigns put together. Emma Colgate, the BNP's National agent, went into some detail on what we were spending the money on and showed images of the billboards, newspaper ads, innovative on-line publicity and text advertisements that were being used.

Eddy Butler, the National Organiser and National Elections Officer went through some of the facts and figures of our campaign.

The BNP was fielding over 450 local candidates (compared to 39 last time county council elections were contested in 2005) with a full slate of 75 candidates in Essex.

The Party was fighting three Mayoral elections (in Hartlepool, North Tyneside and Doncaster), and contesting numerous by-elections as well as the 69 candidates contesting the European Elections.

British National Party Chairman Nick Griffin, gave a rousing address followed by a very intense question and answer session with the assembled journalists.

Media pack North West launch

THE North West and Yorkshire held its own press conference to launch the BNP's European Election campaign in the two regions.

Sky News, the BBC and ITN News were all in attendance along with a dozen or so journalists to hear speeches from Andrew Brons and Nick Griffin before being given the chance to fire questions at the two candidates.

The footage shot at this event, held in a plush hotel on the outskirts of Manchester, will now have a special place in the media's archives as three weeks later both Nick and Andrew won a seat each in the European Parliament.

Martin Wingfield briefed the media on the progress of the British National Party's campaign and its overall goal.

"It is a black and white issue," he said. "If we win a seat in the European Parliament the campaign has been a success, if we don't it will have been a failure."

Gurkha forgery leaves a stain on tabloid journalism

BITAIN'S tabloid newspapers are already held in pretty low esteem by the public, but knowingly telling lies for political gain is sinking to new depths.

That's what The Sun did on May 18th when, in an effort to deter its majority Tory-voting readership from looking sympathetically towards the British National Party, it ran a report which it knew to be a pack of lies.

It claimed that Adam Walker was putting out a leaflet which contained the image of a dead Gurkha, and which opposed the settlement of Gurkhas in Britain.

But Adam, the BNP's lead European Election candidate in the North-East slammed the leaflet as a forgery.

He told The Sun:

"As a former soldier I have the utmost regard for the Gurkhas who have served loyally in the British army for nearly 200 years.

"I back the campaign to allow ex-servicemen to live here. This offensive leaflet has not been produced by me or the British National Party."

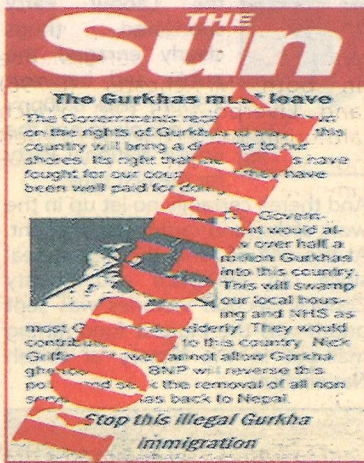

The Sun ignored this although it did remove the story from its website after the Gurkha Justice Campaign denounced the leaflet as a forgery.

It issued a statement saying:

"The persons who created the leaflet are despicable for their use of a fallen Gurkha's photograph in the furtherance of their political goals."

The Sun refused to publish a retraction or apology during the run-up to polling day because it didn't want to boost support for the BNP.

Adam Walker is now demanding a full and prominent apology and substantial damages from the newspaper.

Call centre fields 69,133 enquiries

IT WAS thanks to a new £30,000 Voice IP Integrated Telephone System that the British National Party's call centre was able to field 69,133 calls in the three weeks prior to the elections on June 4th and the week afterwards.

During that frenetic month, 10 administration staff, 13 telephonists and six speed typists were working flat out to process the calls from members of the public wanting to find out more about the BNP, join the Party or just make a donation.

from an automated letter opening machine as well as an automated letter inserter.

Now, with the rush over, the call centre has just six telephonists, but there are still enough call returns to do to keep them busy till the end of the year.

The income from the centre is equally impressive. In the first two weeks in June, £27,000 was taken in memberships, £4,100 in Freedom subscriptions and £4,000 in donations.

The call centre recorded a surge in new members when Nick Griffin and Andrew Brons were attacked outside the Houses of Parliament. The actions of the Labour Party sponsored thugs clearly enraged the public and between 2.30pm and 6.00pm, 100 people joined the British National Party for the first time.

After the European Election broadcast there were nearly 30,000 calls and although only a fraction could be answered, the numbers of all the people calling in were recorded on sophisticated software so that their calls could be returned when staff became free.

For those processing the incoming mail which is still flooding in, there is help

BEHIND THE SCENES: The call centre is in full swing (above) as callers ring in to join the British National Party.

(RIGHT): Fund-raising 'magician' Jim Dowson collates the telephone pledges as they come in.

And there's certainly no let up in the work of the fund-raising department. At the end of June, the first appeal since our European and County Council Election victories was sent out. It was the biggest fund-raising mail-out in the history of British Nationalism.

DISTRIBUTION CENTRE: A host of volunteers join the British National Party's chairman Nick Griffin, in preparing 29 million BNP election addresses for the Royal Mail, to be sent to every home in England, Scotland and Wales.

An army of volunteers prepare 29 million BNP leaflets for despatch

PREPARING the British National Party's European election address in order for it to be accepted by the Royal Mail for delivery to every home in England, Scotland and Wales, was a massive task.

It involved dealing with 29 million leaflets which meant that a huge warehouse had to be rented in order to complete the process and volunteers had to be called upon to come in and help.

This logistics 'nightmare' was, however, in the safe hands of Richard Lumby, the East Birmingham BNP organiser, who has a wealth of experience in dealing with such distribution headaches.

Over a period spanning two weeks, hundreds of British National Party members gave up their time to travel to the warehouse to help split the boxed leaflets, which had just arrived from the printers, into packs of one hundred and then repackage them into postal code addressed boxes.

This was a really labour-intensive but vital job and couldn't have been achieved without an endless stream of enthusiastic helpers.

These boxes were then regrouped into Royal Mail sorting office delivery points which were located all around the warehouse.

It was quite an incredible achievement with people arriving for five day spells and working 12 hours a day. Bed and breakfast accommodation was laid on for helpers and a 'cafe' was set up in the warehouse to provide the workforce with refreshments.

Richard Lumby was full of praise for his army of volunteers.

"These people are the true heroes of this election campaign," he said.

"When our members look back on the election and savour the hard-fought for victories, they must remember that without the effort and sacrifice of this depot's volunteers, the campaign would not have come together in the way that it did.

"We owe them a debt of gratitude."

General Election

08710 500 234

by Martin Wingfield

By a quirk of fate, at half past two on the morning of June 8th Nick Griffin and his BNP team were sitting around a table at Manchester's City Hall awaiting the result from Oldham.

The results system had broken down around an hour earlier and it was only by manual calculations that we had any idea of where we stood and whether we were still in with a chance of winning that final North West seat for the European Parliament.

We knew that the Tories had more than three times our vote, so they would take one of the final two seats. The Greens and us were neck and neck and UKIP were ready to pounce and pip us both on the line.

Everything depended on the returns from Oldham, and while the result had been declared hours earlier, the figures had not been sent through to Manchester.

It was back in Oldham at the 2001 General Election that the British National Party, and Nick Griffin in particular, hit the headlines when he polled 16% in one of the town's two parliamentary constituencies. For the next few years Oldham was a flagship town for the BNP with a string of excellent local council election results and a growing local BNP branch.

But then our activity in the town had dwindled, until a former resident Roy Goodwin, although living in Blackpool, took over at the helm of the local branch. For the past 18 months Roy and his team have worked hard, leafletting twice a week to hold on to and reassure the British National Party supporters in the town which is something every BNP member is indebted to them for. For it was in the hands of Oldhamers whether Nick Griffin would be elected to the European Parliament.

It was a tense wait while this final result sheet was delivered. We were 6,000 odd votes short of our 132,900 target and were desperate for at least an 8% vote. And Oldham did us proud with a vote share of over 11% - 5,435 votes, nearly 3,000 more than the Greens, and close enough to the UKIP vote to ensure that Nick took his seat in Brussels.

It's ironic that it was the votes from the people of Oldham that delivered the final and necessary result to ensure the British National Party's breakthrough into the mainstream of British politics. That's because our opponents, including Oldham East MP Phil Woolas, have always showcased Oldham as "the town where the British National Party were defeated."

The reality, as the European election result proved, is something quite different.

GENERAL ELECTION APPEAL

THE British National Party has now made its breakthrough into the mainstream of British politics by winning two seats in the European Parliament. We now also have three County Councillors as well as a member of the Greater London Assembly.

In the coming months there will be a General Election and it is vital that the British National Party stands candidates in as many seats as possible to ensure that people have the chance to vote BNP.

To compete against the corrupt 'Old Gang' parties we need considerable funding and we are appealing for your help as the BNP makes this vital push for power in order to save our country.

What We Stand for

CRIME: A crack-down on crime with many more 'Bobbies on the Beat'. Much tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of capital punishment for child killers and terrorists. Zero tolerance for drug-dealers and violent thugs.

IMMIGRATION: An end to immigration and bogus asylum seekers flooding Britain. Use the £billions wasted in foreign aid to fund 'Homeward Bound' schemes to encourage immigrants to return to their land of ethnic origin.

INDUSTRY: British ownership and control of British industry and resources, including the mass media. Protection of British jobs and industry by selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.

HEALTH: We will use the vast sums of money now wasted on funding our membership of the European Union for the restoration of an effective national health service and proactive measures to produce a healthier population in the first place.

EUROPEAN UNION: British withdrawal from the European Union to restore Britain's freedom. We will trade with Europe where it benefits Britain, but want no political ties or monetary union.

EDUCATION: A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and an end to 'trendy' teaching methods which have failed our children so badly.

ENVIRONMENT: A healthy environment for a healthy people - the protection of our countryside. A ban on greenfield-site house building except in exceptional cases of genuine local need, an end to field trials of GM crops, and the restoration of our 200 mile fishing limit.

FAIR PLAY FOR ENGLAND: The setting up of an English Parliament to give England the same right of self-determination within the United Kingdom as enjoyed by Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland.

GOVERNMENT & COMMUNITY: The establishment of a government that puts British interests first. A return to healthy moral values and policies aimed at strengthening the family and community. Tough penalties for corruption in public life.

FREEDOM: An major expansion of freedom and democracy to roll back the erosion of our traditional freedoms and truly reflect the wishes of the people. The introduction of referenda and direct democracy.

DEFENCE: An alternative defence strategy based on the principle of armed neutrality. No British blood should be shed in conflicts which do not involve British interests. The restoration of the County Regiment system and the reversal of defence cuts which have weakened our Forces and cost jobs.

REMEMBER! It doesn't matter if you don't agree with us on every last policy. Like all the other democratic political parties, the British National Party includes some members who disagree with one or two policies. Just ask yourself whether you agree with more of our policies than those of Labour, the Tories and the Lib-Dems. Most people do, which is why we are the fastest growing political party in Britain today.

The violence and lies of David Cameron's thugs

DAVID Cameron is a sponsor of Unite Against Fascism, an organisation which is run by the hardline Trotskyite Socialist Workers' Party.

This rabble of extreme left-wing fanatics physically attacks anyone it disagrees with. It is violent, subversive and anti-democratic, yet the leader of the Conservative Party still chooses to give it his backing despite being well aware of the kind of people behind it. Apparently Cameron says he needs to show off his anti-BNP credentials in order to attract ethnic minority voters to the Conservative Party, and that's why he continues to sponsor it.

It was UAF thugs that attacked the press conference being held by Nick Griffin and Andrew Brons on College Green by the Houses of Parliament, forcing the two new British National Party MEPs and the gathered media to run for cover.

The UAF then tried to manipulate the press coverage of the event by claiming that BNP members had attacked a member of the public. Unfortunately for them, with so many cameras at the event, 'the member of the public' was exposed as no innocent bystander but as UAF activist Anna Heath. Her actions also came under scrutiny and this showed that she had walked straight in front of the BNP MEPs as they were making their way to safety.

The UAF claimed its attack was necessary in order to stop the BNP gaining publicity for its electoral success. It, in fact, resulted in much more publicity for Britain's fastest growing political party, with reports of the incident being the lead item on every evening news bulletin.

THE UAF SCAM

Anna Heath walks straight towards the oncoming scrum. Seconds later she is in front of the BNP MEPs, before a member of the security team gets her out of harms way.

Later she tried to claim that she had been an innocent bystander, and had been assaulted by members of the BNP.

WHEN Liverpool BNP activist Tony Ward and his colleagues arrived at a Battle For Britain fund-raising event in Leigh they were attacked by a gang of UAF thugs while the Police just stood by and watched.

The meeting had been forced to change venue three times after a hotel proprietor and a pub landlord had been threatened by the Unite Against Fascism (UAF) stormtroopers.

Tony was attacked with a claw hammer which struck his head and left him unconscious and was only spared further injury when he was dragged to safety by fellow activist Andrew Tierney.

He was taken to a local hospital where he received eleven stitches in the head wound.

"If the henchmen of the Old Gang parties think they can break us with their street thugs, they are wrong," Tony told Freedom.

"We are back, stronger than ever before, and we will not stop until we have rescued this country from the immigration invasion and Islamification nightmare to which the Tories and Labour have subjected us".

The Battle for Britain event still went ahead and raised £2,200.

Police have now arrested a 25 year-old man on 'suspicion on GBH. He was bailed after only being held for only five hours, much less than the Liverpool British National Party activists who were detained for thirteen hours for merely distributing leaflets.

Emma is the BNP's new Party Manager

EMMA COLGATE is the BNP's new Party Manager, taking over the reins from consultant Jim Dowson, who has been acting as the British National Party administration officer for the run-up to the European and County Council elections.

It was the out-going head of admin who made the announcement at the Victory Rally in Blackpool at the end of June.

He told the packed audience:

"I am absolutely delighted that Emma has agreed to take over this most difficult of jobs. I am confident that she is the right person for the job and will take this Party to the next level of professionalism."

Emma has a professional background and has built up a reputation as a high flyer in personnel and recruitment in the private sector.

For the past 12 months she had been working as an advisor and researcher in the London Assembly and was also a key player in the British National Party's June 4th election campaigns. Emma is also a British National Party councillor for Tilbury Riverside in Thurrock in Essex.

NEW FACES: Nick congratulates Emma. INSERT: Alwyn Deacon.

On the political side, Alwyn Deacon is the new West Midlands organiser taking over from Simon Darby who becomes the new Party Treasurer. Alwyn will dovetail his new Regional Organiser duties with his job as the British National Party's distribution manager.

First staff appointments for our MEPs

THE very first staff appointment for the BNP's new MEP teams was made at a press conference in Manchester just 48 hours after the Party's stunning success in the European Elections.

Nick Griffin told journalists that his PA and Constituency Office Manager would be 42 year-old Tina Wingfield, who holds an Honours Degree in Social Sciences and has trained as a Probation Officer.

As part of this role Tina will be managing the Euro constituency's team of case workers, a job she is well qualified for having worked in the fields of criminal justice, health and social welfare.

She also knows first hand about victimisation.

EURO TEAM: Tina Wingfield (North West), Chris Beverley (Yorkshire) and Martin Wingfield.

Tina lost her job because of her political beliefs and there was no one with any influence prepared to stand up for her and defend her rights. Now people in the North West and Yorkshire facing similar persecution in the work place will have an MEP to represent them.

Leeds City councillor Chris Beverley, will be filling a similar role for Yorkshire and Humberside MEP, Andrew Brons.

He is also well qualified having graduated from Leeds University with a First Class honours degree. Chris is 29 years old and lives in Leeds with his wife Joanna and their two young children Warrick and Harvey. Martin Wingfield will be the Communications and Campaigns Officer for both Nick and Andrew ensuring that the work of the two new BNP MEPs gets the maximum publicity.

A Nation of Immigrants? A Brief Demographic History of Britain (David Conway). Using genetic, archaeological and historical evidence, this book shows that the British people are NOT a "nation of immigrants" but a highly homogenous group with roots going back millennia. S/C 104 pp. £9.00

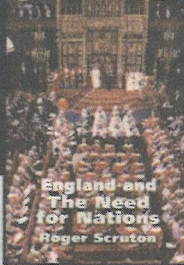

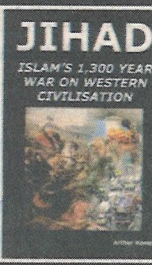

The Immigration Invasion: How Third World Immigration is Destroying the First World and What Must be Done to Stop It (Arthur Kemp). A shocking book detailing the full extent of the Third World immigration wave which is swamping the Western World. Shows that, if left unchecked, the First World will be overrun within the next 50 years. S/C 140 pp. £13.14

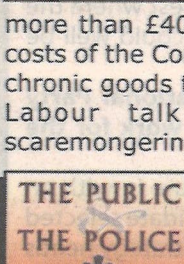

Virtual Caliphates - Islamic Extremists and Their Websites (James Brandon). Shows how Islamic extremists in the UK have websites circumventing anti-terrorism laws to spread their ideas, co-ordinate activities and recruit. S/C 111 pp. £9.60

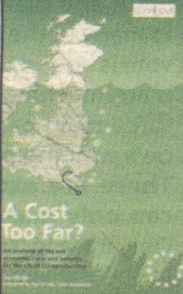

Jihad: Islam's 1,300 Year War on Western Civilisation (Arthur Kemp). Puts the current crisis into historical perspective, showing that instead of being a "religion of peace," violent Islam has, in fact, been waging war on all its self-appointed opponents since its inception. Highly recommended. S/C 72 pp. £9.45

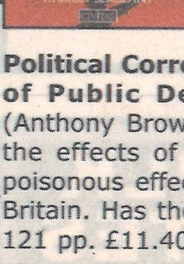

England and the Need for Nations (Roger Scruton). The nation state provides the surest model for peace, prosperity, and the defence of human rights. Shows how the EU threatens this. S/C 63 pp. £10.20

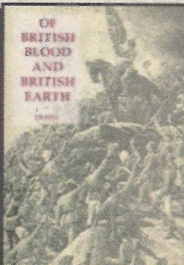

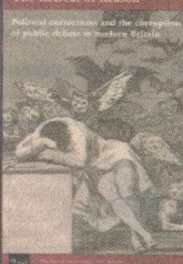

A Cost too Far (Ian Milne). Shows that Britain's membership of the EU costs more than £40 billion p.a. not including the costs of the Common Fisheries Policy and our chronic goods trade deficit. Shows that Tory/Labour talk of 'lost jobs' is just scaremongering. S/C 97 pp. £10.50

The Public and the Police (Harriet Sergeant). Shows how Britain's police forces are crippled by political correctness and impossible "performance targets." Based on a genuine police officer's accounts, shows what decades of Tory/Labour policies have done. S/C 84 pp. £6.50

The Retreat of Reason: Political Correctness and the Corruption of Public Debate in Modern Britain (Anthony Browne). A devastating expose of the effects of Political Correctness and its poisonous effect of public debate in modern Britain. Has the left squealing in horror. S/C 121 pp. £11.40

General Election campaign starts now!

IN LESS than eleven months there will be a General Election and in any of the Parliamentary seats that come under the ten local authorities listed below, the British National Party might have the slimest of chances of gaining representation in Westminster.

Barking & Dagenham	19.4%	(14.8%)
Stoke-on-Trent	17.6%	(22.0%)
Thurrock	17.5%	(21.6%)
Barnsley	16.7%	(18.7%)
Rotherham	15.4%	(20.7%)
Havering	14.8%	(26.9%)
Burnley	14.6%	(14.8%)
NW Leicestershire	14.5%	(16.3%)
Bolsover	14.0%	(14.8%)
Ashfield	13.5%	(15.6%)

The list shows the vote share we gained in each of these authorities at the European Elections. It is, of course, well short of what is needed to win a seat at the General Election, but there is something else to factor into these returns.

It's what I call the 'disillusioned vote', the support for the UK Independence Party in the European Election which could well all but disappear as it did five years ago after their similar spectacular Euro vote.

Some of this support (in the brackets above) will go back to the Tories from where it came, but the lion's share will be up for grabs and the British National Party can capitalise on this.

In many of the local authorities above, when the disillusioned vote is added to the BNP's support, you have a vote share that is approaching 40% and in a well balanced contest where the three main parties are fully campaigning, that could well be a winning percentage.

These are exciting times but the British National Party can only make further progress if the hard work for the General Election starts now.

In the Parliamentary constituencies where we are in with an outsider's chance we need to have the best candidate selected and in place as soon as possible, the campaign strategy needs to be planned and the work got under way.

After our European Election victories and our successes in the County Council elections we are on a 'win/win' footing for the General Election. No one expects us to win a seat under the first past the post system so we can give it all we have got and not lose any of our newly gained electoral credibility if we fall short of our goal.

WE'VE DONE IT! Nick Griffin MEP and his hard-working election agent Clive Jefferson, appear to be celebrating their historic victory. But in fact this photo, showing them in such good spirits, was taken before the polls had even closed in Cleator Moor in West Cumbria.

Your Say

Letters to the Editor - freedom@bnp.org.uk

The REAL fascists

I AM fed up with the constant attacks on the British National Party in the media.

It's obviously an orchestrated campaign and its purpose can only be to try to criminalise the BNP in the eyes of the public.

Yet all the while the main political parties are engaged in real criminal activity in stealing from the taxpayer by deception and fraud.

And this sort of activity has been going on for years.

The Tories under Thatcher crippled our coal industry, freezing its assets and setting the police on miners.

In more recent years the Labour Party under Blair has wilfully eroded our Christian heritage and taken us into two illegal wars that have caused the deaths and injury of thousands of our service personnel.

It's Labour and the Tories who are the real fascists which makes the media's attacks on the BNP misdirected and downright unfair.

And it seems pointless to write in to complain because they do not acknowledge, reply or publish any letters that refute or rebut their biased reports.

Dr R. Barnes, Kings Lynn.

NUJ Guidelines

WANT to know the reason why you never read any good news about the British National Party?

It's all in the National Union of Journalists (NUJ) instructions to its members.

1. Do not report, photograph, film or present the activities of the British National Party.

2. Seek to publish or broadcast material opposing the policies of the BNP.

3. Do not allow the letters column or 'phone-in' programmes to allow supporters of the British National Party to promote its policies.

4. When interviewing representatives of the BNP or reporting statements or claims, seek out rebutting or opposing comments.

5. Always be critical of BNP policies. So it is impossible for any NUJ members reporting on the British National Party to be objective.

David Leadbitter, Oxford.

We need BNP MPs

I SEE that the former Trade Secretary Patricia Hewitt has been appointed to the board of British Telecom at an annual salary of £100,000.

It's an easy life for some! £100,000 for part-time work!

Hewitt was one of the most reviled of Government ministers because of her patronising attitude to ordinary voters.

The willingness of this 'socialist' to cash in at BT shows the depth of her and New Labour's commitment to the working class.

The crisis of confidence in our debased political elite is not just a question of MP's Commons expenses but their featherbedded lifestyles outside and willingness to pander to minorities.

We now have our two MEPs. We also urgently need BNP-MPs to clean up the Commons and give Britain back to its majority population.

John Maddox, London.

Hurting the Gurkhas

HAS Joanna Lumley scored a victory for the Gurkhas or has she helped to write the final chapter in the history of the proud Gurkha Regiment?

The Gurkhas are a mercenary force who have been employed by the British Army because they are brave and cost-effective soldiers.

If they live in Britain they will cost as much as local forces, so there is little incentive to sign them up.

These last Gurkhas, by their actions, have ensured that none of their sons will follow in the long tradition that has been so beneficial for Gurkhas living in Nepal.

Ralph Ellis, Cheshire

Our human rights?

WE all know immigrants are protected by human rights legislation but what about us?

Why doesn't the BNP take a test case to the European Court of Human Rights along the lines that mass immigration, Islamisation and the steady erosion of the traditional British way of life contravenes the human rights of the indigenous population?

Michael Wood, email.

True nobility

IT'S apparently more noble to fly off to the far reaches of the world to fight for the rights of some threatened indigenous tribe than to stay at home and fight for the rights of your own particular people.

True nobility is standing up for the right to have your own nation. This is a basic human right.

We British are becoming a threatened ethnic minority and an endangered culture because of the present rate of immigration.

The Government seems oblivious to the threat and rather than toughening and enforcing immigration laws, it grants residence to those that have entered our country illegally.

There's nothing noble about New Labour, it has betrayed the British people.

Philip Smeeton, Oslo, Norway.

Private care homes

MANY entrepreneurs providing care services are very professional and deliver an excellent service.

They receive a profit for the risks and responsibilities they take.

I am very grateful to a nearby private care home, where my mother resides, for providing a supportive and respectful environment.

The BNP needs a balanced approach and must recognise that many of those providing services in the private sector perform a wonderful job in difficult circumstances.

Of course we need the State to provide these services on a non profit basis but it should be working in harmony with the private sector.

Peter Jarvis, Leicester.

Eddie Izzard rants

JUST before the election I went to see 'Eddie Izzard live at Harrogate Theatre'.

To my disgust it was just a rant against the British National Party.

He even had people handing out anti-BNP leaflets and repeatedly asked the audience not to vote 'British National Party' on June 4th.

Surely this can't be right?

Tom Adams, Harrogate.

CALAIS: Bogus asylum seekers waiting for the soup kitchens, and the BNP banner at the port which created a lot of interest.

The day Croydon BNP went to Calais

by Charlotte Lewis

AT the beginning of June five intrepid British National Party activists from Croydon boarded a ferry from Dover to Calais to take the BNP's protest over bogus asylum seekers to France.

Calais was once a charming town but today it is under siege from an army of young Asians and Africans who are using it as a base from which to try to enter Britain.

In Rue des Garennes there's now a rapidly growing shanty town known as "The Jungle."

It's just outside a traditional suburb of Calais with attractive houses and well kept gardens. Sadly most of the local businesses have been forced to close and the area has the feel of a ghost town.

At the docks a BNP banner saying "Britain is full" was unfurled so that they could be seen by passengers aboard the incoming and outgoing ferries, and by the many people who were at the beach. It was so popular that some passers-by even stopped to video it.

We then moved on to a roundabout near to the port and the response here from the passing motorists, both tourists and locals, was quite overwhelming with horns hooting and thumbs-up signs being given. It wasn't long before French police officers arrived and told us to leave for our own safety as the 'refugees' from the Jungle would be coming out shortly to be fed because the soup kitchens were starting to arrive.

THE JUNGLE: A shanty town on the edge of Calais housing those seeking to come to Britain.

Turkish Embassy

WHEN the Turkish Government tried to interfere in the European Election campaign here in Britain it provided the BNP with the opportunity for an eye-catching demo in central London.

Turkey was upset that our election address said that British National Party MEPs would oppose Turkey's entry into the European Union because of the immigration problems this would bring. A demonstration outside the Turkish Embassy enabled BNP campaigners to hand out leaflets explaining the policy.

Biggest BNP meeting in Somerset

NORTH Somerset organiser Andy Bamford, was delighted with the turnout for the group's Bank Holiday Monday meeting when a large village hall near Wells was packed to bursting point to hear British National Party Chairman Nick Griffin.

The meeting, hailed as the "most successful meeting to date in Somerset", reflected the tremendous local growth of the BNP. A collection raised a record-breaking £570, which when the proceeds from a raffle and literature sales were added, took the total to £845.

Steady progress made in Salford

IN THE Irwell & Riverside ward for Salford City Council, BNP candidate Gary Tumulty, secured a 17.1% vote share, beat the Tories and polled more than doubled the number of votes given to the UK Independence Party.

The British National Party was the only one of the four main parties to increase its share of the vote, up 3.8%, and to also attract more actual votes, no mean feat on a turn-out of just 17.5% which was 4% down on May 2008.

It was a solid BNP performance in a ward with over 2000 students registered on the electoral role. The National Union of Students lobbied to get students out to oppose the British National Party, but their efforts met with only a lukewarm response.

Gary Tumulty was full of praise for a number of local businesses which backed his campaign.

"I'm particularly grateful to Darren Washington for his support with many of his business outlets opting to sell copies of Freedom over the counter and displaying BNP posters."

THANK YOU FOR YOUR SUPPORT:
Gary Tumulty on the doorstep in Salford where he increased the BNP vote share by nearly 4%.

BNP organiser now chairman of the council

JIM Taylor is the organiser of the British National Party North East Essex Group.

He is also a member of Wakes Colne Parish Council in the Borough of Colchester, and now Jim has been elected as chairman of that council by a unanimous vote of his fellow council members.

As well as fulfilling the duties of BNP organiser, local councillor and now chairman of the council, he is kept busy as a self employed Chartered Engineer and Member of the Institute of Measurement and Control.

"It's an honour to have the confidence of my fellow councillors and I'm looking forward to the challenges ahead," Jim told Freedom.

The new chairman of the council (2nd right), is seen here on the campaign trail in Frinton-on-Sea in the county council elections for the Tendring District in Essex, where he polled a respectable 537 (9.7%) in the Brightlingsea division.

Nationalist veteran joins the team in Bracknell

THE British National Party was seen at its best during a day of action in Bracknell in Berkshire.

Led by organiser Mark Burke, and Tim Rait, the BNP's No.1 candidate in the South East Euro-Constituency, the team spoke to many dozens of supportive shoppers and reported a tide of public opinion switching to our side.

One of the British National Party's oldest South East activists, Ron Smith, who lives in Bracknell Forest came along to lend a hand.

Ron is a veteran of British Nationalism who still pounds the streets delivering leaflets and spreads the Nationalist word wherever he goes. He's a fine example to all our activists.

After working the town centre for the morning, the team went on to leaflet the Hanworth ward within Bracknell Forest in the afternoon where nearly two thousand leaflets were delivered.

FINE AMBASSADORS: The British National Party stall in Bracknell town centre.

Local Election Results Round-Up

RATHER overshadowed by the European and county council elections have been some excellent local borough and district council results from contests that also took place on June 4th.

In the 7 seats contested the BNP vote share ranged from 25.6% to 15.6%. It was, in fact, that lowest percentage which was the most promising. In Bedford, in the Tory stronghold of Clapham, BNP candidate Robin Johnstone, fighting the seat for the first time pushed Labour into 4th place.

Mayor's lunch for Pendle BNP councillors

TAKING a brief respite from campaigning for the county council and European elections are Pendle BNP councillors Brian Parker and Adam Grant.

They were joined by local Party campaigners at the inauguration ceremony for Pendle's new Mayor where they enjoyed a superb meal and hospitality.

But then it was back to the grindstone putting out some 12,000 leaflets to build the British National Party vote in Pendle where Brian polled the best vote in the borough with 978 (23.8%) in Pendle Central, followed by James Jackman with 897 (15.4%) in West Craven.

Adam & Pete return to Catterick

THE British National Party held a nationally co-ordinated Armed Forces Awareness Day with teams of activists spreading out across Great Britain to pre-selected military locations. In Yorkshire, a team led by Andrew Brons, the No.1 candidate on the BNP list, descended on the garrison town of Catterick. The area had been divided up into 6 zones by Adam Walker and Pete Molloy to make it easier for distribution of the leaflets. Both men had served in the army in Catterick, so were very familiar with the locality. Regional organiser, Adrian Marsden, reported: "The day went really well with a positive feedback from the special military leaflet and our anti-EU leaflets."

Corby BNP: It's a small team with a big heart

ALTHOUGH the BNP in Corby in Northamptonshire only has a small membership, it managed to attract 1,016 County Council votes in the 3 wards where BNP candidates were standing. Percentages of the vote ranged from 14.1% up to 17.6% and in two wards

BNP candidates beat the Liberal Democrats into 4th place. This was no mean achievement considering the group only has 4 activists who did the folding, inserting and delivering of election & informative leaflets for three of the four candidates standing for election in the County Council elections. Our fourth activist, Denise Sellars, didn't let a disability get in the way of her campaigning. She was out on the road on her mobility scooter carrying all the leaflets around for the other three and explaining to people what the British National Party was really all about. In the European Elections there were another 1,352 votes, which at 9.6% was half as much again as the national average. Corby BNP proves that even a small number of dedicated activists who are devoted to the Cause can make a real difference.

THE CORBY FOUR: Gordon Riddell, Annette Carroll, Denise Sellars and Roy Davies, on this occasion acting as the Party's agents at the European Election count on Sunday Night.

Labour and Plaid fail to stop BNP stall in Haverfordwest

by Clive Bennett

THREE of the British National Party's European candidates for Wales were campaigning in Haverfordwest at the end of May and received an enthusiastic response from local people doing their Saturday morning shopping. Labour and Plaid activists, also in the town to drum up support, tried to get the British National Party stall closed down by sending out no less than the Mayor to ask those manning it if they had a permit. When told that one wasn't needed, Labour supporters wearing their rosettes descended on the stall trying to hand out leaflets, but when it became painfully obvious that very few people were interested they too left. While BNP activists were working the stall, there were a further two leafleting teams out and about posting a variety of leaflets through letterboxes across the town.

Leaflets to attract new members

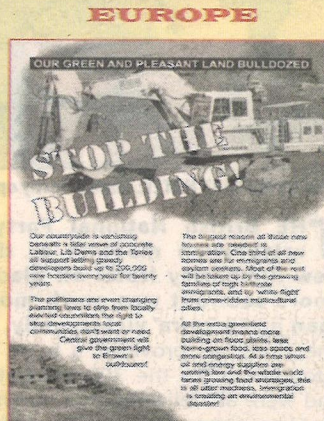

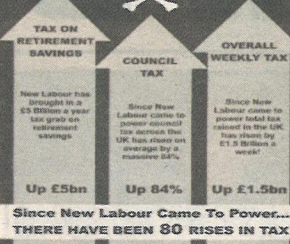

The Cost of Europe

"Britain's membership of the EU costs the taxpayer £8.5 billion every year"

But the costs of membership are not just monetary...

- Jobs Thanks to the European Union, Britain's businesses are weighed down with bureaucracy and red tape, hindering hundreds of thousands of jobs.
- Sovereignty The EU is taking power away from us and giving it to the hands of unelected bureaucrats.
- Currency Every member nation will be forced to join the Euro, that means no more pounds, and no more control over our economy.
- Defence £100 billion of British taxpayers' money is being spent on the EU, which is being spent on the EU, which is being spent on the EU.

EUROPE

OUR GREEN AND PLEASANT LAND BULLDOZED

The biggest reason all these new houses are needed is immigration. One third of all new houses are for immigrants and asylum seekers. Most of the rest will be taken up by the growing families of high income immigrants, and by white flight from inner-city multicultural areas.

Our countryside is vanishing beneath a tide of concrete. Labour, Lib Dem and the Tories are all selling green developers build up to 500,000 new houses every year for twenty years.

The politicians are even changing planning laws to give local authority councils the right to build council houses. As a result, local communities don't want or need council houses. As a result, local communities don't want or need council houses.

The NHS In Crisis

A £512 Million Deficit

Health Secretary Patricia Hewitt was forced to admit that the NHS deficit had reached £512 million - more than double the £250 million target.

15,000 NHS Jobs Face The Axe

In a desperate bid to cut costs in the face of the huge £512 million deficit, over 15,000 NHS jobs are to be axed. This means more understaffed hospitals.

1,000 NHS Beds To Go

More Labour cuts are on the way to reduce costs. A further 1,000 beds are to go this year.

FACT: There are more managers in the NHS than there are beds for patients.

FACT: The British National Party is the only party willing to cut costs by cutting bureaucracy and not patients first.

Crime & Antisocial Behaviour Are Out Of Control

Robberies are up, burglaries and sexual assaults are up, burglary is up. A wave of anti-social behaviour is sweeping our streets and estates with a minority of rowdy youths making life unpleasant for the law-abiding majority. But where are all the police? But behind desks learning how to be politically correct!

When the police aren't in the streets they're far too busy driving dozens to collect a range of different fines and penalties from more Labour council tax payers. It seems that the Labour view of the police is the only real threat to public safety!

But while the police are all at the side of the motorway, or in "political correctness" classes the real trouble is on the way to work. The British National Party would put police back on the streets where they belong. The police would not have their hands tied by politically correct "stand off" and would be able to deal with criminals without fear of losing their jobs.

But Where Are All The Police?

BNP's victory celebration in Blackpool

Victory Song pays tribute to local activists

JOEY Smith's brilliant Victory Song pays tribute to the hard-working members of the British National Party without whom our success in the European Elections would have been impossible. Joey and comedian Frankie Waller, topped the bill of an evening's entertainment at the BNP's own Blackpool Night Out which took place after the Party's Victory Rally.

NEW KIMBERLEY HOTEL: Simon Darby opens the meeting in front of a packed audience.

THE British National Party's celebration meeting at the New Kimberley Hotel on Blackpool's seafront was much more than just a 'ra-ra' victory rally. The speeches provided a mine of information for the 300 delegates and were all delivered in a manner that kept the audience enthralled. The meeting was opened by Simon Darby who introduced Martin Wingfield who provided a detailed analysis of the European and County Council election results. Martin concluded his address: "Our success is down to you. It is because of the hard work of our activists that we achieved our victories and I would like to thank you for your efforts." New MEP Andrew Brons, said that other parties representing Britain in the European Parliament are the implacable enemies of everything pertaining to the maintenance of British identity.

"Institutionalised treason" Andrew said that his first visit to the European Parliament building had confirmed his impression that the whole structure had been put into place to institutionalise treason. "Even the main aisles inside the hideous architecture of the building are named after leading traitors from each European nation," he said. "Furthermore, the lavish opulence of the place is designed to draw weak-willed people into compliance with the treason." Jim Dowson gave an overview of the Party's administration and financial situation reporting that the final turnover for this year will be in the region of £1.5 which shows just how dramatic the BNP's growth has been. "In 2007, the Party ended the year £100,000 in debt. In 2008, we increased our turnover to £1.1 million, more than doubling our income and considerably increasing our staff and infrastructure. Despite everything being paid for, the Party still ended the financial year with a £100,000 profit," he said.

"Take on the media" Paul Golding reported on the BNP's Operation Fightback and how the Party was now going to take on the media when it told lies about us. Paul detailed the successful campaigns of the past 12 months and promised more of the same in the run-up to the General Election. Nick Griffin in his speech said that it was vital for Party activists to get out and build on the popularity of our organisation. "We need to throw ourselves back into the fray with renewed vigour and energy. We don't need to argue the case against immigration anymore. We don't need to argue about the Iraq War, or about the EU or any of the other issues upon which we campaigned. "We don't need to argue them anymore - we have won the argument. Everyone agrees with us. What we have to do now is get out there and show the public that we are the only people offering the policies that they want and that the British National Party gives them winners. "The dam wall has been broken, and the waters of truth will flow out over this country to correct all that is wrong with our land," he concluded to a standing ovation.

GREAT DAY: Nick and Jackie Griffin posed for photos before his closing speech.

"British jobs for British workers" Get your new leaflets today

Because it's not racist to oppose mass immigration and political correctness - it's common sense!

This is the real face of the British National Party, a family organisation that wants to put British people first.

The British National Party is Britain's fastest growing political party, made up of thousands of people just like you - with a common goal of making sure that British people are put first.

The BNP don't 'hate' anyone, we just want to make sure that our own people aren't turned into second class citizens.

The British National Party don't blame immigrants either - we blame the politicians who have let this country down.

BRITISH JOBS FOR BRITISH WORKERS

Protect British jobs from Brown's cheap Labour

Foreign workers ... overseas call centres ... foreign import dumping ... PC 'positive discrimination' ... EU rules ... privatisation rip-offs ...

They are all destroying British jobs. By this time tomorrow another 3,000 will have been given away. Real unemployment will soon pass FIVE MILLION.

All the corrupt old parties are in the pockets of the banks and big business. Labour/Cons all pretend to be worried about job losses but back the same job-destroying policies of free trade and mass immigration. So unemployment is soaring while wages slump.

Fortunately there's now there's a REAL CHOICE in British politics - the British National Party. We believe in PROTECTING BRITISH JOBS from cut-throat foreign competition and in PUTTING BRITISH WORKERS FIRST.

That includes members of British minorities born and lived in this country. It's not a matter of race. It's wrong that people who've worked for this country and paid taxes for years are shovelled to the back of the queue for jobs, health and housing queues behind newcomers who've done nothing for Britain.
